Dale Watson

A Benefit Concert for 'Raising a Hand for Rett'

There will be a benefit concert at the Dosey Doe Big Barn on Sunday, February 28 featuring Texas legend Dale Watson with Amber Digby and a special appearance by Kevin Black. The evening will highlight the publication of Raising A Hand For Rett, a book project by Houston-based photographer Dave Clements and Kevin Black, whose daughter Cortney died at the age of 16 from this debilitating childhood disease. The pair, along with Kevin's brother Clint Black, have been working for over a decade to raise awareness and funds for research to find a cure for the little known disease, Rett Syndrome. Rett Syndrome is a devastating neurological disorder that strikes mostly girls, occurring in about one of every 10,000 female births worldwide. Like Cortney, these precious girls are born normal and advance as you'd expect, up to about the age of 12-18 months, at which point they start to regress to infancy.

Dave and Kevin's book is one that any music fan would love to own. The high-quality black and white photography in the book includes 200 photos of musicians in concert, from Joe Cocker to Sir Paul McCartney, George Strait to The Eagles' Don Henley and Glen Frey, and Dale Watson to Merle Haggard, all 'raising a hand'. The photo of Dale Watson on our cover this month is in the book. 100% of the book's proceeds will go to Rett Syndrome research. The books will be on sale at the show. VIP tickets for the show include a book and a meet and greet with Dale Watson and his autograph. The following is Dale's bio from his website, www.dalewatson.com.

Dale Watson is a honky tonk hero and country music maverick, a true outlaw carrying on where Waylon Jennings left off. A member of the Austin Music Hall of Fame, he stands alongside Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson, and George Strait as one of the finest country singers and songwriters from the Lone Star State.

Although Dale has made his name as a Texas artist, he actually was born in Alabama. Moving to Houston as a teenager, his musical journey began right out of high school as he started playing clubs and local honky-tonks. In 1988, it led him to move to Los Angeles on the advice of rockabilly singer-guitarist Rosie Flores. He played in the house band at the legendary Palomino Club in Hollywood for a couple years and recorded a few singles before moving to Nashville to write songs for a publishing company run by Gary Morris (writer of such country/pop hits as "The Wind Beneath My Wings"). Commercial country did not fit the fiercely independent songwriter so Dale relocated to Austin, Texas where he got a record deal and wrote several songs poking fun at the industry side of Nashville, including "Nashville Rash" from his Hightone debut, Cheatin' Heart Attack and "A Real Country Song" from his 1996 follow-up, Blessed or Damned.

After making three albums with Hightone, Dale released The Trucking Sessions on Koch Records in 1998. Including 14 original driving songs, the album received high praise and caused critics to compare him to chart-topping writer Red Simpson, who was responsible for some of the most iconic trucking tunes in country music.

Just two years after this success, Dale's fiancee died in a car accident. As chronicled in the Zalman King documentary Crazy Again (2006), he turned to drugs and alcohol to cope with her loss and nearly died of an overdose. Dale then checked himself into a mental institution and left a year later, releasing his tribute album to her called Every Song I Write Is For You (2001). After recording a few more albums, he decided to take a break from touring and moved to Maryland to be closer to his daughters.

Back in Texas and on the road in 2006, Dale has been trucking ever since, touring around the world and acting in films (The Thing Called Love, On the Borderline), on television (Friday Night Lights) and most recently, on stage in Ghost Brothers of Darkland County, a southern gothic musical by Stephen King and John Mellencamp. His rumbling baritone has also been heard on commercials for Shell, Monster.com and On the Border Restaurants.

Dale signed with Red House Records in 2011 to release his 20th album called The Sun Sessions. Hailed as "one of the best country albums of the year" (Atlanta Journal Constitution), it was recorded at Memphis' legendary Sun Studios with The Texas Two (bassist Chris Crepps and drummer Mike Bernal) in the stripped-down style of Johnny Cash's earliest recordings. He followed this with El Rancho Azul, 14 fresh honky tonk originals about marriage, heartbreak and honkytonkin', which propelled Dale into the national spotlight with multiple appearances on late-night television and NPR. Call Me Insane, his 28th album, was released in June of 2015.

For more information about the show and the project, or to purchase a book online, visit www.raisingahand.com. Dosey Doe Big Barn is located at 25911 I-45 North in The Woodlands. Their phone number is 281-367-3774. Tickets for the show can be purchased at www.doseydoe.com.

Come experience the Anderson Ford Difference!

Dean Bradley, one of the Service Technicians at Anderson Ford in Cleveland, is the perfect example of a young man who set goals to create a career in a place that he wanted to be. As we continue our series of meeting the Service Department at Anderson Ford, let's spend some time with Dean.

"I went to Tarkington High School here in the Cleveland area. After I graduated I attended North Harris Community College in Kingwood. But I began to realize what I really wanted to do. I had worked on cars and trucks since before I was 16. My dad actually worked at this dealership before Mr. Anderson bought it. But I wanted to be really qualified in this profession. I enrolled at the UTI School (Universal Technical Institute) in Houston.

"The UTI School trains you to have excellent skills in the newer technology skills in auto repair. Although UTI also offers training in Cummins and Mercedes, I think the Ford training is the best. The Ford Fact training allows you to learn about things like Electric Computer Sensors. They teach you basic deductive skills and how to analyze things like what kind of voltage connects to the different functions of the vehicle. So much of auto repair today revolves around computers. You need to learn how to perform the different tests that allow you to determine which issues are connected with the problem. These classes bring you into the new age. The classes take an entire year and although there is some expense, I feel like the investment is worth it. I received 19 of the 23 certificates that you can earn.

"Because of my training, I was able to start my career at Anderson Ford right here in my hometown. I spent several months on the lube rack, but I am now performing most of the service tasks here at the dealership. My dad, who had his own auto repair shop after he left the dealership, is letting me use his tool box."

When he is not working at Anderson Ford, Dean helps his dad on their 10-acre farm.

For many years now, I have focused on letting our readers know about what was coming up in the area, while columnist Dave Miller would write about the details of his and Peggy's travels and music listening from the month before. Dave wasn't out and about too much in January, which allows me to pinch hit this month. Three events got my New Year off to a very nice start.

Our first and second stops were at the Dosey Doe Music Café. As we do most months, we attended Java Jazz night, which features Joe Burlison and Uptown Jazz. This group consists of seven pieces that play more in the traditional jazz style with plenty of improvising and extended, pass to the next musician, jams. The show is the first Monday of every month and has built a regular following of fans. There is no better live music than traditional jazz ,and Uptown Jazz knows how to play it.

Our next visit to Dosey Doe Music Café was on January 15 to hear Milkdrive. Opening for Milkdrive was Shane Walker, who some might remember as a member of the great band from several years ago, The Sidehill Gougers. Shane did a couple of songs from his Gouger days, as well as some of his newer material that I had not heard before. Shane returns to the area this month for a show at The Corner Pub on Saturday, February 20. Another musician who started with The Gougers is Brian Beken, who is now with Milkdrive and is from Montgomery. It is fair to say that Milkdrive features musicianship that is hard to equal by any band. Playing a modern version of bluegrass, all of the performers' play several instruments, with one playing fiddle on one song and another playing the fiddle on the next one. Not unlike Uptown Jazz mentioned above, I would guess that no Milkdrive show is exactly the same because of the improvisation in each show. They have just been confirmed to play with Asleep at the Wheel at the third concert in the 2016 Sounds of Texas Music Series on Saturday, June 18.

There was a running joke with people who knew Jay Ross Martin that the latest live music show he had seen was "the greatest one ever!" The Jammin' For Jay concert that honored Jay's memory was as special and emotional as any live music event I've ever attended. Held at the Crighton Theatre as part of The Sounds of Texas Music Series, a sizeable crowd saw an amazing show. Two groups of five singer-songwriters swapped songs and thoughts and memories of Jay. The performers then returned as a full group of ten to finish an evening that lasted well over three hours. I don't think anyone left early.

Webb Melder, the Mayor of Conroe, was the host for the evening and shortly after 8:00 pm introduced the first set. In this group were Sheila Marshall, Davin James, Mason Lankford (Folk Family Revival), Jamie Wilson (The Gougers, The Trishas) and Kyle Hutton (Real Life, Real Music). All of the songs (three each) were quite good, with some nice variety. Davin James, an excellent guitar player, quickly picked up many of the songs performed by the others and added some great guitar licks, while Jamie Wilson added her wonderful voice as a back-up vocal on a few of the songs. A tremendous set.

The second group consisted of Dustin Welch, Kevin Black, Lisa Morales (Sisters Morales), Richard Bowden and Tony Ramey. All of the five are terrific writers. Most of the songs were more serious fare, but Richard Bowden, the king of the novelty song, kept the crowd in stitches with songs like, "What's That Thing on Aaron Neville's Head?"

All ten performers were on the stage for the two song encore. Dustin Welch led the group through the powerful, "Til I'm Too Old to Die Young" with Jamie Wilson providing vocals on one verse. The song was written by Dustin's father, Kevin Welch. Tony Ramey led the group through the Leonard Cohen classic, "Hallelujuh" to end an unforgettable evening.

January was a good month. We got to hear some great music, see all three of the original Sidehill Gougers, listen to many of the incredible songwriters that regularly travel into our area to play on local stages, and say goodbye to our great friend Jay Ross Martin in the most fitting and beautiful way we could imagine.
