COVER STORY

by Craig Jones

Treynwrek Set to Release New Album, Rule of Thirds

In the 1950's and early 1960's, rock music barely existed. Almost all recordings, and the hit records that came from them, were from individual stars. For the most part, the stars recorded music written by record label staff writers. Professional musicians backed the singers and although, in fairness, the singers had talent, good looks and style counted for a lot. Even the pioneers of rock and roll like Elvis, Chuck Berry, and Little Richard were individual stars, although Berry and Richard wrote many of their hits. Buddy Holley and the Crickets were a band, but Holly sang and wrote the songs. From this came The Beatles and the decades of the revolution of the rock band, with multiple writers working within the framework of the band.

Fast forward to the 2019 Grammy Awards. I was struck by the fact that at least in the portion that was televised, there wasn't a single rock song played and all of the award winners were individuals. Have we come full circle, or is the band that wants to perform as a group that pushes the envelope still out there? That is what Treynwrek is attempting to do with their new album, Rule Of Thirds. The biggest challenge in the world of music has always been to get people to listen.

Treynwrek consists of Trey Dreyden on guitar and vocals, James Breaux on bass and vocals and Tim Hutto on drums and vocals. Treynwrek came together like a lot of bands. "We all attended area jams, especially the one at The Jailhouse that Charlie Parker hosted for so long," Trey says. "We discovered we had a lot in common in what we liked in music, but we also wanted to create our own sound."

"You can hear a little bit of everything in our music," Tim says. "Rock and blues for sure, but we play with pace and power. This will be our third album and, by far, this one is an album where we all contribute. We learned a lot from the first two. Trey did most all of the writing on the first one and on the second one we added musicians and produced too much in the studio. This one we wanted it to be just the band and we wanted to capture the sound we play live. We recorded Rule of Thirds at Sunburst Recording Studios in Livingston. Brandon Fowler of Satisfied Drive worked with us on the recording."

"Although Trey has been our main writer, all three of us chip in on each song," James says. "We have played about 140 shows a year for six years and now with the release of this album, we are ready to see how far we can go."

"We are going to have a Preview Listening Party at the Corner Pub on Wednesday, April 3," Trey says. "We are going to play the album a couple of times and people can order a copy. Then on Friday, April 19 we are going to play Rule of Thirds live at Acadia Bar for the CD Release Party."

Tim says the next challenge is to get their music outside of the Houston area, "We will be looking for airplay, of course. In today's world that means more than traditional commercial radio, which has always been tough for independents. But KPFT in Houston plays us on their blues shows, plus I think college radio would dig our sound. The Internet has endless opportunities that bands have never had before. We have taken a break from shows for a couple of months to finish the album and to get a little break from all of the gigs. But we are ready to get out and start playing again. Hopefully we can play some out of the Houston area and even outside of Texas."

The thing I like about Treynwrek is that they have their own sound. I have never heard a band that sounds quite like they do. Perhaps the point of the story is there are still bands out there willing to take risks and push the envelope. You just have to know where to find them. Dave Miller reviews Rule of Thirds on page 25 in this issue.

TRAVELING GOOD-TIME SHOW

by Dave Miller

Hello friends, fans and groupies of the Traveling Good Time Show.

Sounds live

First I need to make note of the passing of a close friend who I've known since 1950 in the third grade at Horn Elementary School in Bellaire. John David McDaniel and I were best buddies for 69 years until his passing on Valentine's Day. He lived in Hockley and he and his wife Marianne met up with me several times a year for dinner. We shared some crazy stories over the years, including many trips to New Orleans, Mexico, Garner State Park and Galveston over the years. He will be missed!

I have been busy as usual. My life is the usual dull routine, work around the house all week and party all weekend. Saturday I went to the Tacos & Tequila Festival for an afternoon of eating tacos and sipping tequila, then back to Kixstandz for the

My late, great buddy John McDaniel.

Kenny Martin Band, old friends and a GREAT rock band. I also ran into a young friend, Eric Smith and his wife, who I've known since he was 16 (he's 36 now) and a great guitarist. I hadn't seen them for 5 years, so nice reunion.

On Sunday I went to an Art Walk in Montrose at three galleries and back to Humble to Boozer's for Gary Lopez's birthday party with three bands. Gary is a chef at a fancy restaurant and put on a huge buffet, so I stuffed my face and drank a few beers. Alan Lee, on guitar/vocals and Gail Farber, on vocals of Soul to Soul Band, provided the music with a couple of others on drum and bass. Glenn Bryant was also there and did a set of his originals.

The next Saturday I started at Discovery Green downtown for the Houston Creole Heritage Festival Mardi Gras & Parade featuring a float-filled parade, dancers, car show, food trucks, pop-up vendors and live music (and beer, lots of beer). Then on to the Texas Lunar Festival in west Houston's Chinatown for the Asian New Year that had dance performers, vendors and food trucks, and fireworks. Happy New Year of the Pig! (No, seriously, look it up, actually it's the Boar). Then I came back to Kixstandz for UCB (Under Cover Bothers) and a couple of sets of kick-ass rock-n-roll.

On Sunday I went to the Flea at Silver Street Valentine's Day Flea, on Edwards St. near Sawyer Yards for a curated market with collectibles, vintage art, midcentury modern furniture, original designs and artisan products. Lots of neat stuff; wish I had room for some. I came back to Backwoods where they were having an early jam due to the Super Bowl. I got there after it started and Joe Clover was playing with Kevin Soule, Brian Rooney on bass, Guy Vincent on drums and Cameron Scott on sax. Up next was Benny W. Rod on guitar/vocals, Russell Warner on guitar/vocals, Paul Sarver on drums/vocals (a new face in the crowd, and a great performer), and Brian on bass. Then was Richard Bearden on guitar/vocals, Earl T. Jess on guitar, and Russell again. Also in the crowd was Lance G, Gail, Dian Dabney, Mark and Brandy, Bill Knowles, Alice, Gerald Bliss and a cast of thousands.

The next Saturday I went back

Service Advisor

Misty Wittenben brings several years of experience to her new position as Service Adviser at Anderson Ford in Cleveland. Misty was born and raised in Conroe and spent seven years working in the service department at another dealership in various capacities. She also spent some time in the medical field. Misty combines these work experiences with a love of helping people to form her philosophy for starting her new job at Anderson Ford

"These skills match well with the philosophy at Anderson Ford. They are dedicated to taking care of the customer not only in fixing things, but fixing them right. I like the size of this dealership, because here you are a person and not a number. The atmosphere at Anderson Ford is very friendly. I like everyone that works here - everyone wants to help.

"What has changed so much in service is the depth you can go to really fix the problem. Often what is the culprit with a service problem appears to be obvious, but at least part of the issue can originate someplace else. Today's technology can often determine what the entire issue is. That is why it is so important to have the latest equipment and training. We offer competitive pricing and we are very efficient in getting your work done. We have special technicians that can do things like oil changes and tire rotations quickly, so often you experience a short wait. If repairs are more extensive, we can also provide a loaner."

Misty is married to husband, Jimmie and they live in Porter with son Avery, who is three. The family enjoys spending time outdoors with game nights and barbecues.

Zach Cole Johnson of the Kaleidoscope Project

Sadie Williams of the Kaleidoscope Project

Katherine O'Brien on bass and Nicholas Schultz on drums. They do a mix of rock covers and are great performers. That afternoon was a real test of their abilities, as the temperature was 40 degrees with a wind chill close to 30 and they played on the outdoor stage to me, Eric Smith and about 15-20 other brave souls. I will be back to see them there again on March 2, so hope for better weather.

On Sunday after an early stop at Sawyer Yards for some art walk and a few craft beers, I ended up at the Jailhouse for the jam, hosted by Lectric' Ed & the Welders, with Ed, Dennis, M.T., Bill Flanagan and Ron Wiggins sitting in on bass. A surprise set by Dan Scott on guitar/vocals, Larry Gamez on guitar/vocals, Ron on bass, and Dennis on drums featured some cool originals as well as covers. Up next was Russell Warner on guitar/vocals, Larry also, Bill Flanagan on guitar, Guy Vincent on drums, and Ron on bass. The last set I caught was Bruce Middleton on sax/vocals, Bill on guitar and Dennis on drums. Others in the crowd included Gerald Bliss, Rob Brady and Sara to the Chinese Community Center for another Lunar New Year Festival that had local food vendors, cultural performances and craft activities. Then back to Back Pew Brewery in Porter for a set by the Kaleidoscope Project, a powerhouse young group headed by Sadie Williams on guitar/vocals, with Zach Cole Johnson on guitar/vocals, Trotter Burns.

The next Saturday I started on White Oak at Little Woodrows for the St. Arnold Mardi Gras Pub Crawl, a fun event. We proceeded to Bobcat Teddy's, Public House and Onion Creek for a craft beer at each of those places and live music at a couple of them. I left after four venues, they had three to go, and headed back to Conroe to see Cold Shot at Kixstandz.

On that Sunday I went to Houston for the King of Crawfish Festival at Emancipation Park where they had local crawfish cooks, live music and, of course, beer. I came back to Backwoods for the jam, with Lance G & Co opening. Up next was Bill Knowles on guitar/vocals, Charlie Fenn on guitar, Brian on bass and Guy Vincent on drums.

Kevin Soule at Backwoods Saloon

Then Glen Bryant on guitar/vocals, Russell Warner on guitar, Brian and bass and Guy on drums again. Up next was Joe Clover on guitar/vocals, Kevin Soule on guitar, Guy on drums and Joe Leonard on bass. The last set I caught was Scott Shaver on guitar/vocals and the same other guys helping out. Also in the crowd was my old buddy Don Lacy (former drummer with the Little York Road Blues Band with Jimmy Joe Long), Alice, Sara Trotter Burns, Rob Brady, Gerald Bliss, and Linda Ammons Fenley. Another great day in the woods.

Last Saturday I went to Kemah for a mini Mardi Gras Celebration with beads, live music and a boat parade at the Kemah Boardwalk. I stayed for three hours and after a few beers headed back north to Kixstandz for another bunch of music from the Kenny Martin Band. The band consists of Kenny Martin on lead guitar/vocals, Wesley Milholen on bass guitar, Aaron Holmes on guitar/vocals, Garrett Martin on drums, and "Doc" on keys/bass/guitar. Kenny is a cousin of Jimmy Joe Long and a great musician.

Treynwrek

Rule of Thirds

Self-Recorded

This band consists of Trey Dryden on guitar/vocals, James Breaux on bass/vocals and Tim "Wingnut" Hutto on drums/vocals. They have been playing our area for over six years, but this work of original songs really highlights the true quality of their work.

After a brief, cute intro, they get right into it with "Bad Luck", an anthem to not taking any crap, with lots of Trey's grinding axe-work. Then on "Space City Cowboy", a no-holds-barred rocker, they revel in their Texas roots as "bad boys" taking hearts because they can, interspersed with references to the Houston area's ties to NASA. The ominous "Whispers on the Water" has a heavier sound and a bit of voodoo in the bayou, adding to its mystery. Slowing it down a lot, "Creeper" tells a tale of "moving on" from what they had. Picking it back up, "Good Bad Girl" packs a wallop with some pretty cool lyrics and loads of cool guitar licks. The soul-searching "Whiskey Problems" weaves a tale of how "whiskey don't treat me like it used to" and asks a lot of questions (works like that on me, too!). The also-dark "Maelstrom" asks about "the elephant in the room" and has some pretty heavy ideas looming around it. In another nod to their Texas roots,

"Don't Touch My Hat" or "I'll kick your ass", and a host of other things I can't print here, but a slick song, and it hits the mark. More Texas lore surfaces in "Outlaw Josey Wales" with it's tale of running from the law and "don't you ever look back" as the story-line ends with "guns blazing" (nice sound effects, guys), like the movie. The final cut, "Lori's Lullaby" is a fitting finale to this great piece of work, as a loving tribute to drummer Tim "Wingnut" Hutto's late wife, a tear-jerker but beautiful song.

This is a work of art, well-mixed and crystal clear that showcases the talent of this band, and the songwriting is top-notch. Most of you have seen them play and love these guys, but this is really the icing on the cake.

Treynwrek will have a listening and pre-order party for Rule of Thirds at The Corner Pub on Wednesday, April 3 and a CD Release Party at Acadia Bar on Friday, April 19.
