COVER STORY

by Craig Jones

Kat James & Troublemaker

Kat James and her band, Troublemaker were around long before our first issue of North of the Border (now Sound Bites News) was published in 1990. The other two local bands that continually performed in the area that predated us were Earlywine and Ezra Charles and the Works. Ezra recently retired from the band business (he now performs occasionally as a solo act) and I haven't heard anything from Earlywine recently. The Fab 5 started about the same time as North of the Border did. Despite several lineup changes through the years, The Fab 5 continues to thrive. Troublemaker recorded the first CD we ever reviewed by a local band and Kat has two guitar stores named in her honor. I wanted her to share her memories with us in her own words. I have a feeling we just scratched the surface of her life story. Troublemaker is the longest running female-fronted band in Texas history.

Craig Jones: When did you first think of being a musician and who influenced you and your music?

Kat James: It was just by chance that I learned guitar. I was born a kidney patient and lived in a hospital for the first 5 years of my life. I was lucky enough to be chosen by the United States Government to go into their experimental program. It was my only option at life at that time. So during my lengthy stay at the hospital, my father (who was a guitarist for the U.S. Navy band) thought that playing a guitar might be something I could do in a hospital bed. I was given a little acoustic guitar and I just never did lay it down. With some coaching from my father from time to time, I would play and sing children's songs. My father played a lot of country music, so that was the format that I started on, but it soon changed. My influences were quite varied - from my father, Loretta Lynn to Merle Haggard and Wendy-O, all the way to Motley Crue!

Craig Jones: What was your first experience with any band?

Kat James: My father passed away at a young age, so naturally I felt closer to him when I was playing my guitar. I was always trying to remember things he had told me, and things he had showed me. My first attempt at a band was when I was about 16-years old and I was quite the novice at working with other musicians. It was a train wreck and I learned quickly that you had to have good players on a stage. There were none on this stage, and I was still trying to find my direction in the music world. I remember when I first heard the rock bands that changed the world back in the 60's. It changed me. It made me come alive and it felt so natural. It was a feeling that I could not explain. I knew that was the direction I wanted to go, and I pursued it.

Craig Jones: What brought about the idea for Troublemaker (and its name)?

Kat James: I spent a lot of my young years with my grandfather. He was like a second father to me. He taught me so much. His nickname for me was "Troublemaker". He called me that on lots of occasions while grinning. After years of playing guitar, I was putting together the first lineup of what is now Troublemaker. We were talking and I told him I was having a hard time finding the right name for this new band. He immediately blurted out, "well you probably should call it Troublemaker" (as he grinned). I thought about that for a few days and when I mentioned it to the rest of the band, they really liked it, so it was decided and Troublemaker was born. I know it's hard to believe that my grandfather named the band, but it is true.

Craig Jones: What were some of your favorite venues through the years?

Kat James: There were so many cool venues back in the 80's and 90's. Those were wild times and we, like most young bands, were staying busy performing at them all as much as possible. While Strut's, Cardi's, Rockers, Livewire and several others were all really rocking Houston clubs at the time, we were also tearing it up north of Houston too at The 19th Hole and the infamous T's Bar. Fast-forward to present day and The 19th Hole is still rocking Spring today, along with The Jailhouse Saloon in Spring. If you go up farther into Conroe, you have the Backwoods Saloon and Kixtandz among the hot music venues. Troublemaker also performed 5 nights at the Sturgis Bike Rally, which was a great experience and so much fun! There are so many great memories of all with lots of stories to tell, and some stories that you could just never tell!

Craig Jones: What are some of the funniest or scariest things that have happened at shows?

Kat James: There are always wild things happening at shows especially when you are a young band. Some maybe not so funny, as they were more kind of crazy! I don't count the usual bar fight that you might see. But it's not every day that you see 20 topless girls in front of the Troublemaker stage! Then there was that time that some guy walked into the show wearing a trench coat and when he opened that coat he had a gun which looked like an Uzi. Needless to say the club emptied with everyone screaming "he's got a gun" and the entire band dove behind the PA to take cover. The cops showed up shortly after. Then there was that time we played Outlaw Dave's party at the Lonestar Rally, where after the show we had to back down a long dark alley to load out. Some dunk guy was standing in the roadway drinking a beer and when I asked him to please step back out of the way he got mad and kicked the side of the truck. At which time I threw it in park and came out of the truck screaming at him. He then took off running down the alley and naturally I was angry so I ran after him. He ran into a port-o-can and locked the door as I got to the door. The rest of the band had ran after me and were standing there laughing at me while I was banging and hollering on this port-o-can door. Well, finally he opened the door and I went in after him. It was then when I realized that this was a really big guy! Long story short, I won! Whew.

Kat as "Janis on the Rocks"

Craig Jones: How did you meet Bryan?

Kat James: I met Bryan for the first time at a rehearsal session at Charlie Parker's house. We kept running in to each other at WASP concerts and parties. As time went on we became good friends. And the rest is history.

Craig Jones: How did the idea of performing Janis Joplin come to be a reality?

Kat James: I was always told through the years that I sounded a lot like Janis Joplin so I started doing a couple of her songs. People started noticing and requesting those songs. Then we picked up a few more songs, and then a few more. Eventually we had a whole albums worth of Janis Joplin tunes. We started a tribute act called Janis on the Rocks and had some success with that, but it did not keep the band busy enough. So eventually the Janis material was just incorporated into the Troublemaker shows!

Craig Jones: What are your overall thoughts on the current lineup and to what do you attribute to the amazing long run with Troublemaker?

Kat James: I have been lucky throughout my entire career to have always been surrounded by great players in Troublemaker. And the current lineup is no exception! These are ALL seasoned professionals who have been playing as long as I have. The lineup consists of: Robert Hampton on vocals and lead guitar, Mel Gilmore on vocals and drums, and Tony Hiebel on vocals and bass guitar. A top notch lineup. As far as the longevity of Troublemaker, I attribute it to God almighty, along with lots of hard work, strong convictions, tenacity, self-discipline, lots of persistence, and the elixir of life ,Jack Daniels. It has been a long life-changing road.

TRAVELING GOOD-TIME SHOW

by Dave Miller

Hello friends, fans and groupies of the Traveling Good Time Show. I hope you all had a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Sounds live

I'm going to do a review of some of the fun things I did in 2017. I took a few trips, mostly planned ones and one that Harvey made into a fun event for me, spending 6 days and 5 nights on the road, fearing the worst and coming home to a dry house. I saw 224 bands and 940 players this year, down a little from years past but still a lot of music. And best of all, I got to spend a lot of time with many friends and family all during the year.

In January I took a 2-day one night trip to New Braunfels to see The Tailgators at Gruene Hall, eat some great food and do a lot of sight-seeing on the way out and back. In February I went to Louisiana for a few days of casino-hopping and Cajun food, plus a lot of back roads. This was a tough month me, as it was the first year after I lost my lovely wife and best pal ever last February 11. But I made it through the month and am getting stronger every day. I ventured out as I took in a new jam at Green Oaks Tavern in downtown Humble, went to the Continental Club in Houston and to Fitzgerald's for a show.

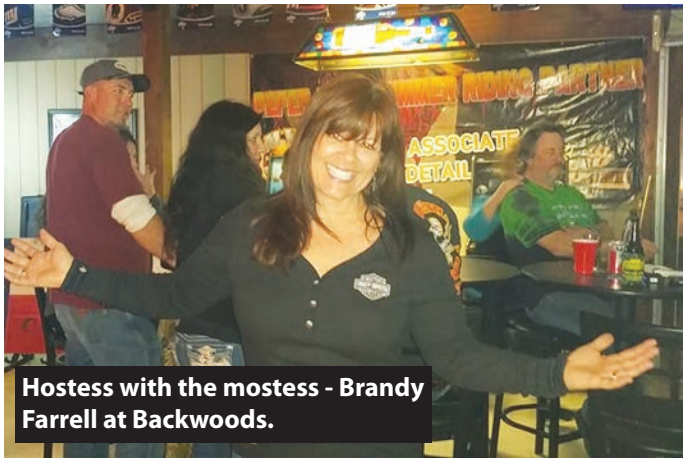
In March, on St. Patrick's Day, I did a marathon of events starting at Gooses Acre Pub for beer and Celtic music, the Town Green Park event for more green beer and music including Treynwrek, then back to Conroe for more beer and music to finish the day. The Gulf Coast Blues Association had their monthly jam at Mo's. The featured act was from Austin with Jeff Plankenhorn on guitar/vocals, Chris Marsh on bass and Brian Mendez on drums. Up next was Big E & The Lowdown, then James Roosa on guitar/vocals, Matt Jaroszewicz on bass, Jason Padilla on drums, Anthony Perrt on sax and "Diamond" Jim Brady on trumpet. These monthly events have become a must for me to see even more artists.

Dave with Alan Lee & Gary Lopez at Green Oaks Tavern.

Every other Sunday I went to Backwoods for the jam with Lance G & Company, opening with Lance G on guitar vocals, Earl T Jess on guitar/vocals, Brian Rooney on bass, Cameron Scott on sax and "Diamond" Jim Brady on trumpet for a "wall of horns", and "Mighty" Mike Lawson on drums. Mark and Brandy always make me feel like a "Superstar" when I show up, and it's amazing how many friends I always see there and how much great music there is.

The Gulf Coast Blues Association had their monthly jam at The Hideaway in April and I got there early to get a good table. Thinking I would see a lot of new talent, I was surprised to see many of the same folks who were at Backwoods the week before. Opening was Tony Black on guitar/vocals, Earl T. Jess on guitar/vocals, Mike Leonard on bass/vocals and Michael Lawson on drums. They did a killer set of blues and set the mood for the day. Up next was Mile Karm on guitar/vocals, Earl T. again, Matt Jaroszewicz on bass and Joe Leonard on guitar later. They did a great job as well.

Big E & Dwayne Lee at Mo's.



Hostess with the mostess - Brandy Farrell at Backwoods.

One weekend in April in downtown Conroe a music festival was going on. I started at Heritage Park where Mary Sarah (from The Voice TV show) was playing with a 4-piece band. She's a great singer, but mostly country, so I walked a block over to catch the last few songs of a 4-piece girl band. They were so good I followed them to Martin's Hall for a full set. Then I heard Johnny Riley do a blues set on the sidewalk and back to Founder's Park for a gospel group.

May was a huge music month. The Gulf Coast Blues Association had their monthly jam at Emmit's Place this month and I got there early to get a good table. Opening was Rick Lee & the Night Owls with Rick on guitar/vocals, Thurman "P-Funk" Robinson on bass and Robert Mason on drums jammin' on his down-home blues. Then up came Earl T. Jess on guitar/vocals, Mike Leonard on bass/vocals and Robert Mason on drums as well as Rick Lee on guitar. They did a killer set of blues and set the mood for the day.

My busiest weekend of the year so far came the weekend of May 4-6 with the Conroe Americana Music Festival, held in downtown Conroe at six venues. Four were existing venues, The Corner Pub, Sheri Lavo at Backwoods.

Red Brick Tavern, Sparkle Icehouse (now Pacific Yard House Bar & Grill, with a new roof installed) and Martin Event Hall on Simonton. There were two large tents, one on Main and one on Thompson. A total of 53 acts were scheduled, so I had to do a lot of research before I went. Since I have seen so many bands, I tried to concentrate on those I had never seen, so I spent a lot of time on You-Tube watching music videos of those I had never seen. I'm sure I missed some great sets, but feel like I did really good. With that many sets, I gave up trying to document every band, songs and every detail like I try to do with the column. I spent 22 hours there and saw 26 acts with 116 performers. Not a bad record for one weekend.

Dave & Gail G. at Backwoods.

March 1992 was the first column I wrote for North of the Border, and so it's over twenty-five years of keeping you posted on what's going on and what's coming up. Craig Jones, publisher of the paper, posed a great group shot of me and 25 friends holding copies of past papers on the stage at Backwoods and he used it as a cover shot for the June issue. They had everyone sign the cover at the party and framed it for me. It will be a great keepsake and conversation piece from now on.

To celebrate this milestone, the kind people (Brandy & Mark) at Backwoods Bar and Craig & Pixie Jones of Sound Bites News joined to have a day of good-times on Sunday, June 11 at Backwoods.

Lance G & Co. at Backwoods.

I was so glad to see most of my "regular" friends and some I haven't seen in a while who came out to party with me. The regular jam with Lance G & Company began as usual and we had a number of great sets from so many great musicians.

I'm not going to try to list all of the friends who showed up; I didn't take notes as I was so busy visiting and "working" the room. There were so many of the regulars, and I was happy that my son Randy came and enjoyed the party with me. Special thanks to Brandy & Mark for their warm hospitality (as always) and Craig & Pixie Jones, publishers of the paper - Craig's nice talk and presenting me with the classic custom "Music Lover" t-shirt were a highlight of the day. Thanks to Lance for proclaiming "International Dave Miller Appreciation Day". I truly felt like royalty. Thank you to all the people who showed their love. I am blessed to have a community and "family" for all the support after I lost my wife, Peggy last year. I hope you all realize how much I love all of you. You have kept me going and I look forward to many more years of this.

My daughter Kellye arrived on July 11 for a four-week stay and we hit a lot of places she had on her wish list. She lives in a very small town with no restaurants and little to do, so I treated her to many of my favorite eating places amd gave her the grand tour. It has been many years since she was in Conroe and, of course, it has changed a lot. We went to Baytown, where we lived for ten years, and drove by all the places we lived so she could take photos of them. It was a nice nostalgia time. We went to Louisiana for a night of slots and Cajun food, with a stop for lunch at Pine Tree Lodge off Highway 73 between Port Arthur and Winnie. We also took a 4-day trip to Gulfport/Biloxi, Mississippi and Mobile, Alabama to see a friend of Kellye's she hadn't seen in years, and ended in Vicksburg with a lot of casino-hopping as well.

The day before my 75th birthday (August 26) with Harvey headed here, I got the Hell out of Dodge. My house had flooded 4 times since 1994, including just last year and I didn't need the stress of sitting in a dark house watching the water rise. So I went to Oklahoma for 5 nights and made lemonade out of lemons. I stayed in Lawton and went sight-seeing all over the state, plus hit a bunch of casinos, ate a lot of good food and just had a great time. My next-door neighbor called me Wednesday morning and said it was over and I could come home. I walked into the house expecting the worse, to find it high and dry. Thank you Lord!!! What a nice birthday present.

In September, on Sunday, Sept. 24 at the Big Easy, I was a judge for the Houston Blues Society for the International Blues Competition. There were four bands and they were all good. This was my 8th time to judge the contest.

On September 30, I left for parts north, spending the night in Miami, Oklahoma, then to St. Joseph, MO on Sunday, picked up daughter Kellye in Omaha and went west to Deadwood, South Dakota for 3 days of sight-seeing in the Black Hills and the Badlands. We saw lots of bison, elk, deer and other critters, and played a lot of slots. I dropped her back at Omaha on Friday, spent the night in Wichita and was home on Saturday after 3,372 miles.

During the last few months I have made numerous stops at Jailhouse, Backwoods, Kickstandz, Continental Club, Fitzgeralds and Mo's Irish Pub. I look forward to 2018 and a lot more music and friends. I only had so much room for photos, but picked a few favorites from this year for this issue.

Well, folks, that's about it for this month. If any of you need to get in touch with me, you can call me at 936-756-9699 or e-mail me at my email address of miller22@consolidated.net or mail me CD's to review at P.O. Box 2393, Conroe, TX 77305. See you next month!

Lee Alexander & Co

Mayhaw Vaudeville

Self-Produced

Lee returns with a themed album, doing a contemporary version of a "Variety Show" with several genres and styles of music. He brings a unique sound to the table with this group of widely diverse songs. Opening with a scratchy, old-time Victrola style "Balinese Room", he sets the tone for this eclectic mix, then the soaring chorus of 'Miles Between' takes a folksy look at things said and not done, then 'Mayhaw Wine' is a nostalgic look at things of the South from magnolias to dogwoods and how he misses them. The pleasant melodies of 'These Days' combine with some nice stinging guitar work, and the spare acoustic cut 'Wheel' compares the chances we take on a roulette wheel. He takes a turn toward classic country on 'Okemah Moon' with lots of twangy fiddle and guitar (this tale of a farmer's daughter is at least rated only PG), then turns poetic about small town life on "Carol Anne' and the endless cycle of poverty and hopelessness it helps endure, as some mournful woodwinds leave us on a sad note. His take on the traditional English anthem 'Maggie Mae' (not the Rod Stewart song) with the seaman's love of a Liverpool prostitute leaving him in tears is a nice rendition, and 'Union Street' has a whispering Lee telling a story that resonates of old England as well. The 60's pop style of 'Mr. Walker's Epilogue' could be the most retro cut, and the sad tale of 'Green Room Mirror' echoes the sadness of a performer who repeats the same lines over and over with no feeling, and plenty of regrets. The full version of 'Balinese' is a wondrous 30's style tune with muffled vocals and horns that really captures the essence of the heyday of this now sadly lost treasure. Lee put a lot of energy and imagination into this release, and it is a treasure of musical genres that meld together for a near-perfect product. I highly recommend it. Look for them at local venues. Although Damon Moore and Herbert Brown are new at Anderson Ford in Cleveland, they bring a wealth of experience to their new positions.

Damon Moore is the new Finance Manager. Damon is from Demopolis, Alabama and was in Auburn, Alabama when he answered an ad that got him into auto sales in 2003. He has excelled ever since and became involved in auto finance.

Damon feels a strong commitment to helping customers at Anderson Ford, "In finance, the only thing I consider winning is getting our customers the financing they need. No matter what their credit history is, I expect our Finance Department to do everything possible to get the customer the best deal we can find for them. We can accomplish this by working with Ford Credit and literally dozens of other banks and lenders. We also know how to be creative with getting the customer in the right vehicle and choosing the proper down payment."

Damon lives in Humble with his wife Kimberly, who is an architect. They have four children: Madyson, age 12, Carynne, age 8, Ragyn, age 7 and Bryce, age 6.

Herbert Brown is originally from New London, Connecticut. He spent many years in New Orleans learning the automobile business. Hurricane Katrina brought him to the Houston area. He specializes in Sales and Leasing of both new and used vehicles. But he also assists in helping those with credit challenges. "People who feel uncomfortable coming to the dealership because they think they might get turned down should feel just the opposite! We only win if we get you financed. Plus, if you go to the small tote-the-note lots, you might not ever improve your credit."

Herbert lives in Tomball and is close to his brother and sister. He is active in his church and enjoys following football.
